RIDE OR DIE

Brit's loyal boyfriend of five years, Sam Asghari — who sported a #FreeBritney tee ahead of the court date — was seen accompanying her around L.A. following the dramatic hearing.

BRITNEY

ROAD TO FREEDOM

AFTER LOBBYING TO BE RELEASED FROM HER CONTROLLING CONSERVATORSHIP, BRITNEY SPEARS IS FINALLY FEELING CONFIDENT ABOUT THE FUTURE

Stronger than yesterday: After more than a decade of suffering in silence, Britney Spears is finally feeling optimistic again. An OK! insider reveals that ever since Britney, 39, gave an impassioned courtroom speech on June 23 lobbying for her freedom — from a 13-year conservatorship in which every aspect of her life has been controlled — she “feels so relieved, like a huge weight has been lifted off her shoulders.” The pop star, who spoke via phone at the court hearing, detailed the “abusive” reality of the conservatorship that her dad, Jamie Spears, enacted in 2008 and begged the judge, “I just want my life back.”

EMOTIONAL PLEA

Dozens of supporters circled the courthouse as Britney read her statement. The singer revealed she'd been stripped of all her autonomy, forced to take medication, undergo rehab stays and psychological evaluations against her will and cannot make her own financial decisions while earning millions. Britney even stated that she's prevented from removing a birth control device despite her desire to have more children. The punitive terms of the conservatorship are “doing me way more harm than good,” she declared. “I deserve to have a life.”

The insider tells OK! Britney appeared in court two years ago with the same concerns but “felt no one was listening or believed her. So she had to be bold and share these personal details to make them understand how she feels.”

Now, after years of trying to extricate herself from the conservatorship — her appeals reportedly date back to 2014 — Britney's confidence has returned. “This time, she believes she was heard and that things will change,” says the insider, who adds that Britney's more than ready to make her own decisions, including setting her tour schedules and settling down with boyfriend Sam Asghari, 27. “This hearing gave her the morale boost she needed ahead of the next [July 14] court date,” adds the insider. “Britney won't stop fighting until the conservatorship is dropped.”

BINDI'S FAMILY FEUD

On Father's Day, new mom Bindi Irwin, 22, who welcomed daughter Grace on March 25, turned to Instagram to celebrate her husband, Chandler Powell, her late father, Steve Irwin, and her father-in-law, Chris Powell. Noticeably missing from her post: her granddad, Bob Irwin. When a fan asked why she'd left him out, the wildlife warrior lashed out against her paternal grandfather for what she described as a lifetime of neglect and "psychological abuse" and claimed he'd shown "no interest" in spending time with her family, despite their generous outreach.

Bob, 82, had a falling out with the family shortly after the 2006 death of his son over the direction the Irwins' beloved Australia Zoo was being run by Steve's widow, Bindi's mom,

Terri. According to an insider, Bindi's uncharacteristically harsh comments were simply a bid to defend her loved ones before her estranged grandfather speaks out again. "The word is Bob's ready to launch another attack against them for turning [the zoo] into a commercial tourist trap," spills the insider. "Bindi and Terri are devastated and say they're at their wits' end trying to mend fences with Bob, who just wants nothing to do with them."

While the Dancing With the Stars champ "saw it as her duty" to go on the offensive and protect her immediate family, "she's opened up a real Pandora's box," the insider laments, noting things could get ugly. "Bob doesn't have a history of holding his tongue, and after Bindi's accusations, a lot of skeletons may come out of the Irwin family's closet."

BROKEN BOND

"From the time I was a little girl he has ignored me, preferring to spend time doing anything else rather than being with me," Bindi wrote about her grandfather Bob, who resigned from the zoo in 2008.

Ratings for the current season of the dating show fell even further in the second episode. "Producers think a big name would help," spills an insider.

JULIANNE

THE NEXT BACHELORETTE?

Will she accept this rose? An insider says producers would love to have Julianne Hough as the next Bachelorette in the hopes of giving the show a major ratings bump. "ABC execs are desperate to shake things up," explains the insider, pointing out that viewership for the Season 17 premiere with lead Katie Thurston, 30, was an all-time low for the franchise. "Now that Julianne won't be returning to Dancing With the Stars this fall, they think people would love to see her somewhere else on the network," the insider adds. Julianne, 32, who filed for divorce from former hockey pro Brooks Laich, 38, last November and was romantically linked to actor Ben Barnes, 39, earlier this year, "would no doubt be excited by the prospect," dishes the insider. Julianne, who recently joked that a "great body" is her biggest turn-on when it comes to dating, "has never been afraid to try new things," the insider says. "And she would definitely add some spice to the show." Sounds like she's The One!

ROLE CALL
While Blake was the one who received a sweet shoutout from Gwen on Father's Day, "Gavin wants him to know there's a difference between being a dad and stepdad," says a source.

GAVIN & BLAKE'S

SERIOUS SIT-DOWN

Daddy issues! Now that Blake Shelton is finally set to wed Gwen Stefani, her ex-hubby, Gavin Rossdale, wants to have a man-to-man convo with him to discuss parenting duties, a source tells OK! Blake, 45, who will officially become stepdad to Gwen and Gavin's sons, Kingston, 15, Zuma, 12, and Apollo, 7, "is super excited about it, but Gavin wants to lay down some ground rules," explains the source. "He's gotten ticked off at Blake in the past for seemingly overstepping his bounds, and is ready to make it clear he has final authority with the boys." Gavin, 55, whose 14-year marriage to Gwen, 51, imploded in 2015 after he was accused of cheating on her with their nanny, "also wants to make it clear that badmouthing him in front of the kids won't be tolerated," says the source. The Bush rocker is eager to meet with Blake before he and Gwen tie the knot later this summer, as "he'd like to say his piece sooner rather than later," notes the source. "Gavin may still be on rocky terms with Gwen, but he'll always be a part of those boys' lives."

"The only thing messier than two boys is me."

CHRIS HEADING EAST?

He's one of Tinseltown's biggest A-listers, but Chris Evans is looking to return to Massachusetts and put down roots, a pal tells OK! The Captain America star, 40, "talks about settling down in the town where he grew up outside Boston," shares the friend. "It's a quiet, peaceful little place where he can kick back and spend more time with his family, including his mom, who runs a nearby youth theater where Chris got his start. And no one makes a big fuss over him, which he really appreciates." The hunky Knives Out actor, whose long list of high-profile exes includes Jessica Biel and Minka Kelly, is also ready for a more down-to-earth dating life, adds the pal. "In fact, word is he's been seeing someone on the East Coast for a few months," shares the friend. "She's not in the business and is low-key, which suits Chris just fine. He's had it with the whole Hollywood scene." After all, there's no place like home!

BRAD

FINDS HIS ZEN

"The idea of getting dressed up for a red carpet and hobnobbing with industry types no longer appeals to him," a source says of Brad's new lifestyle.

Just say om! Brad Pitt has always been a laid-back kind of guy — and a source says that these days, he's basically bohemian! "Brad overhauled his life to be super hippy-dippy. He spends his free time meditating or doing sculpture," spills the source, adding that when the star socializes, "it's always with his new group of artsy friends." The Oscar winner, 57 — who is still locked in a custody battle with his estranged ex Angelina Jolie over custody of their five minor children — has also reportedly been spending time with Swedish indie singer Lykke Li, 35. "It makes sense," says the source. "Recently, he's been attracted to eccentric, creative types." While Brad's still connected to the Hollywood scene with his acting and producing work, "he's not nearly as chummy with his old A-lister pals, like George Clooney, as he used to be," adds the insider. "He hasn't dumped them per se, but he's off in this whole other world, chilling and doing his thing."

ERIKA'S Birthday Blues

Erika Jayne turns 50 on July 10, but she's certainly in no mood to celebrate. According to an insider, the Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star is a "nervous wreck, and no wonder, since her world is crashing down around her." Erika's taken a brutal public bashing in the wake of a new Hulu documentary, The Housewife and the Hustler, which details the shady financial dealings of her estranged husband, Tom Girardi, including allegations that the 82-year-old embezzled $20 million from his law firm to fund her lavish lifestyle. "On top of that, she's caught up in these bankruptcy proceedings against Tom and could go underwater financially," explains the insider. Thankfully, Erika's catty fellow housewives have sheathed their claws and rallied around her. "She is so thankful for that," the insider adds. "Erika's determined to clear her name and come out on the other side, but the future looks pretty bleak. She could never have imagined her life would be such a nightmare at the big 5-0!"

Summer Road Trip?

Don't Forget These Essentials

Hitting the road this summer? Before you roll out, make sure your packing list is complete with all the necessities needed to enjoy road trip season. Whether you're headed to the grandeur of the Grand Canyon, the crisp mountain air of Colorado or Florida's soothing shores, take these tech and fitness items along for the ride.

Pack the Travel Vac

Spills are inevitable on a road trip. Keep it clean with the Eufy RoboVac HomeVac. The cordless handheld vacuum cleaner is lightweight and charges via USB, so it will always be ready to pick up life's little messes.

Power Up

Long car rides call for lots of on-the-road entertainment. Keep up with Instagram, YouTube and your favorite podcast with Anker Chargers. The PowerCore Metro Essential provides up to 96 hours of power for use over extended periods, while the two USB Type-A ports and PowerIQ deliver charge rapidly to two devices at once.

A Quiet, Peaceful Ride

Get a break from classic road trip sing-alongs with SoundCore Life 2 Active Noise Cancelling Wireless Headphones. The adjustable padded headband and memory-foam ear cushions are made with durable soft leather and the active noise cancellation reduces external noises for a purer musical experience when traveling or in loud environments.

Relax & Unwind

Logging long days in the car or on the hiking trail? Give your muscles a little TLC with the Power Plate Mini. The portable handheld massager reduces pain, promotes blood flow and fascia release and packs easily.

MIDCENTURY MARVEL

THE EMMY-WINNING ACTRESS' DESIGNER DIGS JUST HIT THE MARKET

Julie Bowen is ready for her next chapter! With the star's long-running sitcom, Modern Family, wrapping up last September, she's making some changes on the personal front, too, listing her stunning L.A. property. The actress, 51, picked up the 3,212-square-foot pad in 2017, shortly after splitting from her husband, Scott Phillips, with whom she shares son Oliver, 14, and 12-year-old twins John and Gustav. Designed by renowned Case Study architect Thornton Abell in 1959, the residence received a complete overhaul in the early 2000s by then-owner Jonah Wilson, whose dad is Beach Boys cofounder Carl Wilson. It was then bought by Gregory Peck's widow Veronique Passani, and their son Tony, an actor and screenwriter, eventually sold it to Julie. However, the mansion's showbiz pedigree is far from its only highlight. Nestled in the Hollywood Hills, the four-bed, four-bath spread boasts original teak cabinetry, several stone fireplaces and walls of glass offering idyllic canyon and treetop views. Additional A-list amenities include a stone-and-glass-walled carport, a detached gym, a high-end kitchen and a barbecue area, all of which could be yours for a cool $3.85 million. And remember: You don't have to be in the entertainment industry to make an offer!

FILM FAILURE
Jennifer and Ben's 2003 comedy Gigli, which had an almost $76 million budget, bombed at the box office, grossing just $7.2 million.

BEN & JEN

BACK ON THE BIG SCREEN?

Fans aren't the only ones excited about Jennifer Lopez and Ben Affleck's reunion! Since rekindling their romance in May, the couple has "received a ton of scripts to star together in rom-coms and other flicks — and they're actually considering it. The idea of working together on a movie sounds very intriguing," a source tells OK!, adding that despite the failure of their last joint projects — 2003's Gigli and 2004's Jersey Girl were critically panned — they feel confident about coming together again on-camera. "Gigli was a disaster, but Hollywood has a short-term memory, and Jennifer and Ben feel they have it in them to give it another shot and do it better."

In fact, one script has particularly caught Jennifer's interest. "It's about a couple who reunite years after they screwed it up the first time," dishes the source. "It sounds familiar, and that's why she feels it would be fun to do." Ben, 48, is on board too. "Jennifer had to convince him that it was a great idea, but it didn't take much, just some love and teasing," says the source. "Anyone who knows Jennifer also knows she likes to do business with the men she dates, and Ben is no exception."

While they're excited about what the future holds, Ben and Jennifer, 51, are also being cautious. "They're not rushing things," notes the source. "They're basking in the romance and want to allow their relationship to develop before officially signing on to a joint project," the source continues. "It feels so right this time — they don't want to mess anything up."

TORI & DEAN'S DOMESTIC DRAMA

In the doghouse! Tori Spelling and Dean McDermott are no strangers to oversharing. But the BH90210 alum's recent confession that they're sleeping in separate beds has her hubby seriously peeved, an insider tells OK! During a June 16 SiriusXM interview, the mom of five, 48, revealed that she's been curling up at night with her brood while Dean's banished to another room. "That was taking the TMI a step too far, even for him," spills the insider, who says the couple's roller-coaster 15-year marriage has hit yet another rough patch. "Tori's unhappy because she feels Dean doesn't pay enough attention to her and doesn't help around the house enough. It's a constant source of irritation for her," explains the insider. Dean, 54, who recently returned from a six-month film shoot, "thought they were actually in a far better place, so this came as quite a shock," adds the insider. "Tori airing their dirty laundry was a real kick in the teeth, but annoyed as he is, Dean knows he'll have to be on his best behavior before Tori allows him back into the bedroom!"

BREAKING NEWS

An insider says the duo "don't communicate enough. Dean would like Tori to tell him how she feels instead of hearing about it on the radio."

"Tom often brings Heidi breakfast in bed or will show up with a Big Mac, fries and Coke — her guilty pleasures!" says a pal.

TOM

STILL WOOING HEIDI!

A model husband! It's been two years since Heidi Klum and Tom Kaulitz tied the knot, but he's still working overtime to keep their romance alive. "Tom is like a teenager in love, always organizing sweet date nights and showering Heidi with thoughtful little gifts," shares a friend, who says the Tokio Hotel guitarist, 31, especially loves adding to the former Victoria's Secret model's collection of sexy lingerie. One of the things that attracted Heidi to Tom was that he's "a super romantic guy," dishes the pal, explaining that the rocker sends the Project Runway alum, 48, huge bouquets of roses — "her favorite flower" — at least once a week and leaves "cute notes hidden around the house" when he has to go out of town. "Heidi is a sucker for love, so the sweet gestures never get old," continues the friend, noting that the duo never shies away from PDA or singing each other's praises. "Despite their age difference, they're a perfect match." Cut from the same cloth, indeed!

HAILEY & JUSTIN ALL GROWN UP!

Could Justin and Hailey Bieber have a future career as foreign diplomats? If their recent trip to Paris, where they charmed French President Emmanuel Macron and his wife, Brigitte, is any indication, perhaps! According to an insider, the singer, 27, and model, 24, were thrilled with their recent getaway to the City of Lights, where Macron invited them to help celebrate the annual Fête de la Musique. "The couple was so excited to be asked to the Élysée Palace [on June 21]," the insider says. "The president and his wife couldn't have been more accommodating. They talked about their favorite musical artists, and Justin was flattered to hear that Macron was a fan of his and knew his songs. And Brigitte complimented Hailey on her dress and shoes." The foursome also discussed more serious topics, like cyberbullying and depression, which Justin admittedly suffers from. "Justin and Hailey came off as very mature and knowledgeable," adds the insider. "They're not kids anymore, and they make a great team."

An insider says the Biebers made a great impression on the president and his wife, saying, "They all really enjoyed their conversation."

HARRY & MEGHAN'S WORK WOES

Duty calls! Prince Harry and Meghan Markle hoped to have lots of quality time to bond with their new baby, but a source says the pair realized they'll have to be a lot more hands-on with their business and charity projects. Harry, 36, and Meghan, 39, who announced they were taking up to five months off after welcoming daughter Lilibet Diana in early June, "assumed they could do the bare minimum and just attend the occasional Zoom meeting maybe once or twice a week," the source spills. In addition to the power couple's lucrative deals with Netflix and Spotify – reportedly worth a whopping $175 million – to produce films, documentaries and podcasts, Harry landed gigs at two nonprofits in March. "The work is piling up, and certain deadlines can't be missed," notes the source. While the Sussexes will still have downtime with Lilibet and her brother, Archie, 2, "they won't get to kick back on the beach as much as they'd like," the source adds. "They may have bitten off more than they can chew!"

PERFECT MATCH

“Sandra and Bryan have a very special connection,” says the source. “He’s her true love.”

She’s one of the most beloved stars in Hollywood. But those who know Sandra Bullock best admit that there’s more to the A-lister than meets the eye. “She’s always been referred to as ‘America’s Sweetheart,’ but it’s her resilience that makes her so unique,” says a source. “Sandra is a tough cookie.”

That’s an understatement. From a near-fatal plane crash to a gut-wrenching divorce, the actress — who turns 57 on July 26 — has been through it all. “She’s taken a few hits along the way. But the thing about Sandra is that she always gets back up again. That’s one of the many reasons so many people admire her,” the source tells OK! “And it’s made her stronger as a person.”

LOW POINTS

One of Sandra’s first life-changing moments came in late 2000, when the plane she was traveling in with then-beau Bob Schneider and two crew members crash-landed in snowy Jackson Hole, Wyo. “It could’ve easily ended in tragedy,” says the source. “The aircraft was wrecked, but Sandra and everyone else walked away unharmed.” The terrifying accident still haunts the star, adds the source: “There’s not a day that goes by that she doesn’t appreciate what she has.”

Sandra went on to find great personal and professional success, marrying Monster Garage alum Jesse James, 52, and winning an Oscar for her role in The Blind Side in 2010. But months later, Sandra’s life came to a screeching halt when she filed for divorce from Jesse after five years of marriage following reports he had cheated on her with multiple women. “It was one of the scariest and loneliest times of her life,” recalls the source. “Sandra wanted to disappear.”

But she couldn’t. The actress had secretly been in the process of adopting a baby boy (Louis, now 11). “She knew she needed to be there for her child,” says the source, explaining that the newborn had begun living with her that January. “Sandra and Jesse started the adoption process together, but when she found out about his double life, she scooped up her little boy, got her things and walked out,” the source continues. “She was afraid Jesse might try for custody of Louis and was prepared for a battle.” Luckily, Jesse backed down quietly. Sandra finalized Louis’ adoption as a single mom – without the fight she was dreading. Adds the source, “She hasn’t spoken to Jesse in years, but she’s done holding a grudge. She’s let go of the past and moved on.”

COMING TOGETHER

In 2015, Sandra adopted her second child, a daughter named Laila, now 9, who had been living in foster care. “Friends will tell you that motherhood changed her life,” shares the source. “Sandra feels fulfilled and finds every day new and exciting.” In addition to helping Louis and Laila with their homework, fixing them snacks and playing games, Sandra makes it a point to talk openly with her kids about what’s going on in the world. “She believes that being honest and forthright will make them kind and confident,” explains the source. “And her way is working because they are strong and caring individuals.”

But Sandra doesn’t do it on her own. For the last six years, she’s had photographer boyfriend

FAMILY OF FOUR
Bryan fits into Sandra’s life perfectly. “He’s super kind. For the kids, he’s sort of No. 1 and I’m No. 2,” she’s gushed. “But I get it because he’s more fun and has better treats.”

Bryan Randall, 55, by her side. “Bryan is a wonderful father figure. He’s so patient and kind with Louis and Laila and always helps with whatever they need – even when he’s tired,” gushes the source, noting that Sandra is totally comfortable leaving Bryan with the kids while she needs to go to work on location. “She feels so lucky to have him in her life.”

While the two have always appeared to swear off marriage, it seems their feelings recently changed. “They’re talking about tying the knot either later this summer or this fall, maybe in Austin where she has property,” spills the source, adding that Louis and Laila are eager for them to become husband and wife. “The kids have an innate sense of how things should be and, as Sandra has learned, they’re usually right,” the source continues. “At the end of the day, Sandra feels like she’s faced her demons and is ready for her next chapter. She loves Bryan and can’t imagine life without him.”

OK!

JESSE: PEOPLE STILL HATE ME!

Sandra’s forgiven her ex-husband – but her fans haven’t! According to Jesse, he still gets backlash on social media over his infidelity. “The easy [put-down] is, like, ‘Oh, well, you cheated on Sandra Bullock,’” said the Monster Garage host. “It’s like people love to see you fall. And the farther you get, the more they love it.” While Jesse admits he feels “remorseful” for hurting Sandra (he blames his cheating on “ego, loneliness and resentment”), the West Coast Choppers founder thinks it’s unfair that he’s still being vilified. “Yeah, I did cheat on my wife. In general, both women and men cheat. It’s part of life,” explained Jesse. “But I stood up and took accountability for it and apologized. And that’s end of story.”

HOLLYWOOD HEARTTHROBS

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

OK! HAS THE SCOOP ON WHAT YOUR FAVORITE POSTER BOYS ARE UP TO TODAY

JOEY LAWRENCE

As the well-meaning dimwitted brother on hit '90s show Blossom, Joey became a flannel-wearing phenom, complete with a catchphrase.

The actor, 45, found some career success in later years, including a stint on Dancing With the Stars and a starring role on sitcom Melissa & Joey, before filing for bankruptcy in 2018 and for divorce — from his wife of 15 years — in 2020. Whoa!

JASON PRIESTLEY

Jason logged ten solid years — the entire span of the '90s, in fact — as good guy Brandon Walsh on Beverly Hills, 90210. He's since been a professional race car driver, tried his hand at directing and gone back to his Canadian roots as a Toronto-based crime-solver in the show Private Eyes. But Jason, 51, could never quite quit his infamous zip code, returning for his breakout's cheeky reboot, BH90210, in 2019.

KIRK CAMERON

He earned teen hunk cred as smooth talker Mike Seaver on Growing Pains, but now he's more known for gabbing about religion and "family values." A born-again Christian, Kirk, 50, stars in and produces faith-based movies, espouses biblical values and leads Christian marriage workshops — and recently ruffled feathers with controversial statements about gay marriage.

FREDDIE PRINZE JR.

Freddie became a bona fide genre-crossing movie star, thanks to teen classics I Know What You Did Last Summer and She's All That. But marriage and family with his Summer costar, Sarah Michelle Gellar, gave the heartthrob new priorities: "I love being a full-time father," he said in 2018. "I'm basically retired." Luckily, the occasional producer and voice actor, 45, found time for a lead role in this year's Punky Brewster reboot. Punky power!

CHAD MICHAEL MURRAY

The ultimate '90s hunk in both hit TV shows (One Tree Hill, Gilmore Girls) and high school rom-coms (Freaky Friday, Cinderella Story), Chad, 39, is still making teen fare (see: a recurring role on Riverdale). But the actor's also ventured into darker new territory: He'll appear with his wife, Sarah Roemer, and Bruce Willis in the thriller Killing Field and will star as serial killer Ted Bundy in this year's Ted Bundy: American Boogeyman. Talk about playing against type!

The former teen idol was seen walking his dogs in L.A. on June 20 — marking the first time he's been photographed since 2013!

JONATHAN TAYLOR THOMAS

Home Improvement's resident cherub-cheeked cutie, JTT ditched the hit show before its much-watched 1998 series finale and went on to pursue higher education, studying at the Ivy League's Harvard and Columbia. But the 39-year-old has made a few tentative returns to Hollywood: He's appeared alongside former TV dad Tim Allen in Last Man Standing and snagged a spot on the SAG-AFTRA National Board. Not exactly Tiger Beat, but we'll take it!

SCOTT BAILO

Scott, 60, brought loads of affable charm to the '70s and '80s sitcoms Happy Days and Charles in Charge. But in recent years, the actor sparked controversy when his Charles costar Nicole Eggert claimed he sexually assaulted her when she was a teen (which he denies). He's also come under fire for provocative political comments and has insisted he "genuinely...[does] not care" if he "never work[s] again." Not so happy days!

MARK-PAUL GOSSELAAR

In 1992, Mark-Paul said so long to Saved by the Bell's Bayside High and his myriad schemes as troublemaker Zack Morris. But the prolific TV actor and Mixed-ish star, 47, signed on for the show's 2020 reboot — in which Zack's become the California governor! — and even hosts a podcast, Zack to the Future, that looks back at the cultural-touchstone series. Sounds like the ultimate '90s "timeout!"

DEVON SAWA

Devon was an in-demand '90s hunk after hits like Casper and Idle Hands. But in his mid-twenties, the actor, 42, took a six-year break from Hollywood, admitting that he "really thought about giving it up completely." (Eventually, he circled back and "swore that I would only do stuff that makes me happy.") Luckily, teen stardom wasn't Devon's Final Destination: He's since found steady TV and film work — including a return to his horror roots — and is thankful for his Teen Beat past, stating, "I'm forever grateful [for] all the stuff that got me here."

LEIF GARRETT

He was a child star in the '70s and a mega pop idol by his teens, going on to woo some of Hollywood's most in-demand starlets, from Tatum O'Neal to Justine Bateman — until personal turmoil in the '90s, including drug arrests and rehab stays, derailed his career. But Leif, 59, got sober, returned to his music-making roots and has said he's "just taking things one day at a time...That feels good."

ANDREW KEEGAN

Andrew was a fixture on red-hot '90s TV, appearing on everything from Full House and Boy Meets World to 7th Heaven and Party of Five. Likely best remembered for playing the scheming jerk in 10 Things I Hate About You, Andrew, 42, did a major about-face, founding Full Circle, a "heart-centered" spiritual community in L.A. "I'm an adventurous, open-minded and curious person about spirituality," the star recently explained. Lucky for fans, he's also still acting and has said he's "very much looking forward" to future roles.

CHEF ERIC RIPERT

IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK IN BUSINESS

CELEBRITY CHEF JUDY JOO TALKS TO ERIC RIPERT OF THE FAMED NEW YORK CITY RESTAURANT LE BERNARDIN ABOUT RETURNING TO FORM AFTER THE PANDEMIC

Le Bernardin chef Eric Ripert remembers the first few weeks of the pandemic like they were yesterday. “We closed the restaurant on March 13, 2020. It was devastating,” says the French culinary icon. “I was especially concerned about the employees who live paycheck to paycheck.” The upscale New York City seafood eatery (power couple John Legend and Chrissy Teigen and actor Richard Gere are regulars) reopened twice as Covid wreaked havoc on the hospitality industry but has now returned to full capacity. “It’s very good news,” says Eric. “Our clientele has been so supportive. It’s incredible.” Chef Judy Joo talks to the Vegetable Simple author about surviving lockdown, his work with City Harvest and his career highlights.

How did you cope during lockdown?

I was naïve at first, thinking Le Bernardin would be able to reopen a month later. I decided to start a GoFundMe for the staff. Our goal was to raise $200,000 and we made $240,000 right away.

How about on a personal level?

The day after the restaurant closed, my wife and I went to City Harvest’s mobile market in the South Bronx and distributed food to those in need. We wanted to help the community. When things got really bad, I moved with my family to the countryside. I tried to stay as strong as I could for my son.

A lot of high-end restaurants began doing takeout.

“My favorite [dish] is whatever is in season,” Eric says of the elegant plates at Le Bernardin.

We decided not to do that because I don’t believe Le Bernardin food is good in a box. But we did rehire some of our people and we put together 400 meals a day for the doctors and nurses who were coming from out of state and staying nearby.

Does it feel like things are returning to normal?

New York is coming back very quickly. Restaurants are a big part of what makes it so attractive. Nobody wants to be home anymore and it feels good to have that energy again.

Le Bernardin has such a loyal clientele. Why do you think that is?

We’ve been open since 1986, so you have our loyal clients coming, and then their children and now their grandchildren! It’s a great vibe. What I love about the young people coming in is they are very elegant. The men are wearing ties and the women wear beautiful dresses. Everybody wants to be beautiful and celebrate.

You’re also the Vice Chairman of the board for City Harvest.

It’s an honor to be in that position. We recently made a pledge that for every client who comes to Le Bernardin, we’re giving five dollars to City Harvest. We’ve been able to feed more than 90,000 people so far.

Can you share a career highlight?

In 1994, I got my first four-star review in the New York Times. That’s a big deal because that can make you or break you. And then we got three stars from Michelin, which is the max, and that was a big highlight.

What inspired you to write your new cookbook, Vegetable Simple?

I’ve done six about seafood and I wanted to do one about vegetables. I do a lot of very simple recipes that elevate them. I’m not sick of seafood, but on the weekends, after eating it for lunch and dinner every day, I can use a little break!

GRANDMA’S BYALDI

FROM VEGETABLE SIMPLE

INGREDIENTS

- 1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 4 medium yellow onions, quartered lengthwise and thinly sliced
- 4 ripe Roma tomatoes, cored and cut 1/8-inch thick slices
- 1 medium zucchini, cut into 1/8-inch thick slices
- 1 medium yellow (summer) squash, cut into 1/8-inch thick slices
- 1 large Japanese eggplant, cut into 1/8-inch-thick slices
- 1 tbsp thyme leaves
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

DIRECTIONS

1. Preheat the oven to 450 degrees.
2. In a large pot, combine 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil and onions and cook over medium heat, stirring every few minutes, until they begin to brown and caramelize, about 20 to 25 minutes. Season the onions with salt and pepper and transfer them to a 10-inch oven-proof casserole, distributing them in an even layer along the bottom of the casserole.
3. Arrange a tight overlapping row of tomatoes along one edge of the casserole (as in the photo), then follow suit with the zucchini, yellow squash and eggplant, and another row of tomatoes, zucchini, squash and eggplant, until you have filled the casserole with fanned rows of vegetables.
4. Drizzle with remaining extra-virgin olive oil, season with salt, pepper and thyme leaves. Transfer to the oven’s middle rack, and bake 20 to 30 minutes, until the vegetable is tender and the casserole is bubbling and caramelized at the edges.
5. Remove from the oven and let rest in a warm place. Serve hot.

HALLE BERRY

At 54, Halle is in the best shape of her life thanks to her healthy eating habits (she's been following the low-carb, high-protein keto diet for years) and daily sweat sessions with her trainer Peter Lee Thomas. They do MMA-inspired routines along with strength training and boxing moves. "Boxing is still considered one of the best full-body workouts," noted the Oscar winner. "I always learn a new way to challenge myself and work new muscles."

2011

ELLE MACPHERSON

According to Elle, adopting a plant-based alkaline diet at age 50 helped slow the hands of time dramatically. "My skin looked tighter, dewier and plumper," she revealed. "I started to lose weight, probably because my sugar cravings had subsided. My digestion improved. I felt more emotionally balanced." Now, the 57-year-old eats "beautiful, whole, natural foods," practices meditation and yoga regularly and gets outside as much as possible (wearing SPF, of course!). "The immune system," she's said, "is very much boosted by sunshine."

GABRIELLE UNION

The ridiculously youthful 48-year-old has a few tricks up her sleeve for looking and feeling fierce. She exercises regularly, combining cardio with strength training and Pilates, eats clean (she follows an "almost vegan diet" and steers clear of gluten, soy and dairy) and drinks a gallon of water a day. But she's said her best anti-aging tip is setting boundaries. "[It's] the ability to say no, no and hell no," the Bring It On alum revealed. "We run ourselves ragged saying yes to every freaking thing. A lot of people call it selfish, but I don't have any wrinkles!"

WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES A DECADE MAKE? FOR THESE STARS, HARDLY A THING! OK! HAS THEIR STAY-YOUNG SECRETS

CHRISTIE BRINKLEY

It's hard to believe Christie, 67, posed for her first Sports Illustrated Swimsuit cover more than 40 years ago! She credits a "rainbow diet" for keeping her beautiful from the inside out. "I want as many colors as possible. The deep green, the leafy greens, the purples in the skin of the grapes... are all the ingredients that do wonderful things to your skin," she shared. She also exfoliates every day, noting, "It's really contributed to my skin feeling fresh and smooth."

JENNIFER LOPEZ

Clean living has clearly done wonders for Jennifer, 51. "I don't drink, or smoke, or have caffeine. That really wrecks your skin as you get older," she revealed. The superstar — who works out every day alternating between dance cardio sessions, weight training and core work (have you seen those abs?) — has said sleep is her real secret weapon. "I can't stress this enough," she noted. "Ideally, I would love to get nine or 10 hours of sleep, but either way, I always make sure I get at least eight." Not bad for one of the hardest working women in Hollywood.

LUCY LIU

"What you eat will eventually be reflected on the outside," the Charlie's Angels alum, 52, has wisely said. After going vegan for a spell, Lucy switched to vegetarianism last December. "I make a lot of things for my son that have cheese and eggs in them, so I eat with him because he loves sharing food," she explained. The star also likes quinoa porridge and a soup she makes with red dates, lotus root and lion's mane mushrooms. Her philosophy is simple: "Drink lots of water, eat lots of fresh fruits and vegetables and meditate."

You've heard of breakfast for dinner — but why not have it for dessert? As a trained pastry chef and the creative whiz behind Dana's Bakery, Dana Pollack is a pro at taking classic goodies to a whole new level. "Raise your hand if you pick all the marshmallows out of the Lucky Charms? Now imagine all those marshmallows in a bowl for the taking," Dana says of the inspiration for the crave-able cookies she shares here. Now, she adds, it's "that much easier to enjoy your favorite meal any time of day." Leave it to Dana to make a childhood must-have even sweeter!

DANA POLLACK'S CEREAL BOWL COOKIES

Ingredients

- 2 cups sweetened fruit cereal (Fruity Pebbles are preferred)
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 1 tbsp baking powder
- 2 sticks (1 cup) unsalted butter, softened
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 3 large eggs
- 1 tbsp vanilla extract
- 1 cup white chocolate chips
- 2 cups oat cereal with marshmallows (Lucky Charms are preferred)

Pro tip: Need a gluten-free version? Replace the all-purpose flour to a 1 to 1 gluten-free flour.

Directions

- 1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Line a large baking sheet with parchment paper.
- 2. Place the fruit cereal into a food processor and process until it is ground. Set aside. In a large mixing bowl, combine the flour, salt and baking powder.
- 3. In the work bowl of a standing electric mixer fitted with the paddle attachment, cream the butter, sugar and ground cereal for 3 to 5 minutes, or until light and fluffy. Add the eggs and vanilla and mix until combined.
- 4. Slowly add the flour mixture and beat to combine. Stir in the chocolate chips and oat cereal with marshmallows until just incorporated.
- 5. Using a cookie scoop, form cookies. Evenly space them on the prepared baking sheet. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the edges are slightly golden and the centers are still soft. These cookies will stay fresh for 1 week at room temperature.

THE REAL HOUSEWIVES OF POTOMAC

Premieres Sun., July 11, at 8 PM ET on Bravo

From foster care to girlboss! "I didn't grow up with all of this — I earned it," says Mia Thornton.

There will be break-ups, break-downs and breakthroughs on the sixth season of the roller-coaster reality show. Karen Huger wonders if her husband's gone astray as Candice Dillard Bassett tests boundaries by having her spouse manage her music career. Meanwhile, Dr. Wendy Osefo deals with drama at home while pursuing her dreams. Ashley Darby, who recently welcomed her second child, struggles with balancing kids and romance, and Robyn Dixon and Gizelle Bryant both question whether giving their exes another shot was the right call. Entrepreneur and married mom of three Mia Thornton joins the cast — and doesn't waste any time getting confrontational! Luckily, the cameras are there to capture it all.

GOSSIP GIRL

Jordan Alexander, Whitney Peak
Premieres Thurs., July 8, on HBO Max

Even Blair Waldorf and Chuck Bass would be scandalized! This riveting reboot of the beloved CW series follows a new crew of spoiled brats on the Upper East Side. No secret is safe as “Gossip Girl” (again narrated by Kristen Bell) returns after years offline, this time as an anonymous Instagram account that gives DeuxMoi a run for their money. Expect more flamboyant fashion, more socially conscious characters and more boundary-pushing plotlines as the influencer era gets the soap opera drama it richly deserves.

SHARK BEACH WITH CHRIS HEMSWORTH

Mon., July 5, at 9 PM ET on National Geographic Move over, Aquaman! The Thor star goes on an oceanic adventure in this documentary special, which finds him taking a deep dive (metaphorically and literally!) to learn more about how to reduce the number of human-shark encounters gone wrong. Self-proclaimed “novice diver” Chris does all of his own stunts, making a splash as the marquee TV event kicks off National Geographic’s six weeks of SharkFest programming, which will also air on Nat Geo Wild and Nat Geo Mundo.

Chris and conservationist Valerie Taylor are on a mission to tear down stereotypes about sharks.

MOVIE

“[Florence] is an amazing scene partner and she has a fresh take on everything,” Johansson said of the rising star.

BLACK WIDOW

Scarlett Johansson, Florence Pugh, Rachel Weisz, David Harbour | PG-13 | July 9

After making the ultimate sacrifice in Avengers: Endgame, Natasha Romanoff/Black Widow (Johansson) finally gets her own Marvel Cinematic Universe outing with this eagerly-anticipated prequel. The Avenger must confront her own past when the Taskmaster — the villain who trained her since birth to be a lethal assassin — now wants to put her out of commission. It’s not exactly a solo outing: Natasha teams up with her estranged “family” of superspies (Pugh, Weisz and Harbour) along the way in an action-packed and emotional ride.

FLASH FORWARD

"The process is three hours and then it's an hour to take off," Milo Ventimiglia said of becoming "Old Jack" for a dream sequence on This Is Us. Meanwhile, his costar Mandy Moore has been "Old Rebecca" dozens of times. "I love that I'm given this opportunity to play this character from 25 to 68," she said. "So I don't begrudge the process that goes along with it."

ORIGINAL PRANKSTER
 Johnny Knoxville's tricky transformation into 86-year-old Irving Zisman in Jackass Presents: Bad Grandpa earned the comedy's makeup team an Oscar nomination. "Without the makeup, the movie doesn't exist," noted Johnny.

SENIOR MOMENTS

"It's basically like a breast implant but on your face," shared Prosthetic Renaissance's Mike Marino of the silicone molds worn by Eddie Murphy and Arsenio Hall as their My-T-Sharp barbershop characters in this year's Coming 2 America.

MARGOT
ROBBIE
JULY 2

What's in Your Stars?

Leo July 23–Aug. 22

Mars and Venus were last together in your sign in 2015 – and what a time you (hopefully) had! If not, don't miss this chance for you and your boo to join the passion planets in making beautiful music together.

Virgo Aug. 23–Sept. 22

It's a sad truth that Virgo gets stuck with the stick-in-the-mud rep. But your trine with Pluto retrograde in Capricorn is loaded with chances for change. Pluto, the planet of metamorphosis, can jazz up your image.

Libra Sept. 23–Oct. 23

You're sextile with masculine Mars and feminine Venus in Leo. Both planets have different approaches to sex. Mars rules arousal and passion – romance is the province of Venus. What's your preference?

Scorpio Oct. 24–Nov. 21

Three strikes and you're out! You're either trine, sextile or square with all three current retrogrades – Jupiter, Saturn and your very own ruler, Pluto. It's a case of too many retrogrades spoiling the cosmic soup!

Sagittarius Nov. 22–Dec. 21

That lusty link with Leo lasts another month. There's so much heat in your trine with the Lion you might head for cooler climes come the end of July. Best to take along someone who can keep up with you!

Capricorn Dec. 22–Jan. 19

If you can lift your nose from the grindstone long enough to check out what's going on with the rest of the world, you might notice that July 5 is National Workaholic Day. But odds are you won't be taking it off.

Aquarius Jan. 20–Feb. 18

While opposite the cosmic lovefest that's lingering in Leo, you're pretty low on the lust-o-meter. Add to that restrictive ruler Saturn in your sign, and you'd really rather be reading a good book, thank you.

Pisces Feb. 19–March 20

Few signs get mystical and misunderstood Pisces. But not surprisingly, other intuitive water signs do. And vice versa. Currently, you might pick up on some distress signals coming from a Scorpio.

Aries (March 21–April 19)

Aries plays second fiddle to no one – unless it's another fire sign or a cat with a better fiddle! Holding court with both Venus and Mars in its sign is king Leo. And by trine, you enjoy his many cosmic boons.

Taurus (April 20–May 20)

Taurus doesn't handle betrayal well – and who would when square with their ruler? Venus being yours, you may feel furious that someone you trusted deceived you, even if you ought to be over it.

Gemini (May 21–June 21)

So you're two-faced! The twins come by this cosmically. You stay on good terms with everyone because you can switch personalities at will. But ruler Mercury in your sign wants you to become more direct.

Cancer

June 21–July 22

All Moon phases directly affect Cancer. The waning moon saps your strength, the waxing moon restores it and the Full Moon makes you a bit barmy. But the New Moon in your sign on the 9th offers new hope.
